

1. Preamble

The National Service Scheme (NSS), established in 1969 under the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, is a nationwide initiative that encourages students to contribute to nation-building through community service. It promotes a strong campus–community connection and develops the personality of students through voluntary work.

NSS emphasizes student-led activities, enabling volunteers to understand social issues, build civic responsibility, and engage meaningfully with communities. Volunteers work to support the needy, promote dignity, and provide assistance during natural or man-made disasters. Through these experiences, they cultivate empathy, discipline, leadership, and a commitment to public welfare.

Aims of NSS Programs/Activities

The operational aim of NSS is to integrate the three core components of the program—education, service, and personality development. NSS activities are designed to offer diverse learning experiences that foster a spirit of participation, service, and achievement among volunteers.

The activities focus on making education relevant to real community needs and exposing students to rural and urban situations. They encourage students to plan and execute development projects that create durable community assets and improve the quality of life of economically and socially weaker sections. NSS also promotes collaborative work by involving students, non-students, and local residents in rural development efforts.

Further, the program aims to develop leadership qualities by identifying and nurturing the potential of students and local youth, ensuring their deeper involvement in community initiatives and the maintenance of assets created during camps. It emphasizes the dignity of labour, self-help, and the importance of combining physical work with intellectual growth. NSS inspires youth to contribute actively to national development and foster national integration through cooperative living and group action.
